SAMPRI

Vol. II
Issue-September, 2021

Principal's Message:

It gives me immense pleasure that the Media and Public Relation Committee of Government Model College, Deithor is going to publish the second issue of Sampri, the biannual Newsletter of our college. The prolonged Covid-19 pandemic has engendered unprecedented challenges for the existing academia; with regard to both continuation of quality higher education and institutional commitments towards the endorsement of various socio-cultural undertakings. The forthcoming issue of Sampri brings a ‘Ray of Hope’ for a new dawn in these arduous times. It testifies the indomitable spirit of the human mind to see through challenges of any magnitude and would truly reinvigorate all for the path ahead. I am hopeful that this Newsletter, in years to come, would act as a dedicated mouthpiece for the varied aspects of academic, social and cultural endeavours of the Government Model College Deithor, thereby reaching out to a wider audience. I am equally optimistic that the current issue would go a long way in forging a strong bridge—connecting all the stakeholders of this institute, including the local community at large. I firmly believe that it would further strengthen our collective allegiance to promote socio-cultural participation among all the stratum of society. Once again, on the account of the ensuing publication of Sampri, I, take this opportunity to extend my heartiest greetings to all the members of current editorial board as well as everyone associated with this second issue, either in any capacity or spirit. I congratulate you all.

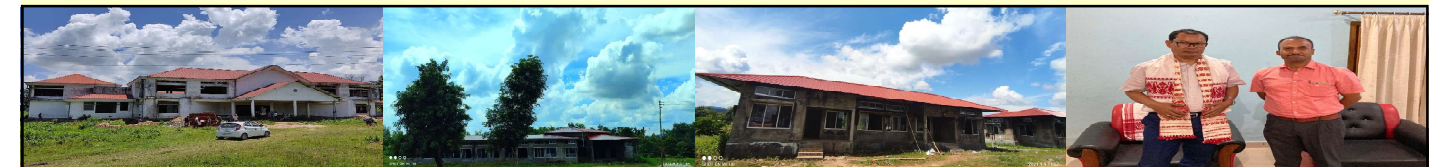

Dipok Kumar Bora, Ph.D.
Principal,

Government Model College Deithor, Karbi Anglong

From the Editorial Board

Paulo Freiri in his much acclaimed book, The Pedagogy of the Oppressed, once said that the idea of education should be to promote critical thinking among the students through ‘problem posing model’ rather than education becoming an ‘act of depositing’, which he calls ‘a mechanical banking model’.

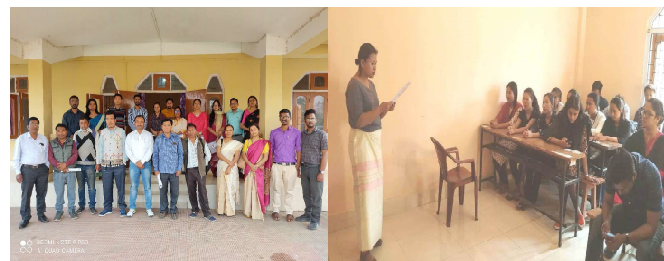

Amidst the Covid-19 pandemic, as we make a more aggressive transition towards normalising the online mode of education, the onus lies upon all those who are associated with the academic sphere to ensure that the creativity and the imagination of young learners do not suffer acutely. The Covid-19 pandemic has caused unprecedented constraints in all spheres of life including academia. As such there is a momentous responsibility for all of us to ensure both quality education and holistic development programmes for the learners. In this regard, the current issue of Sampri- A Ray of Hope, aims to navigate a fresh direction and open up new avenues for the attainment of scholastic and cultural excellence among the academic community. To conclude, the editorial board would like to appreciate wholeheartedly, the collective efforts, dedication and meaningful contributions of everyone because of whom this forthcoming issue of Sampri is going to see the light of the day. We are deeply grateful to all.
